1. The disclosure is objected to because of the following informalities: reference to this application being a National Stage Application of the PCT application is needed; the reference to figure 1 on page 10 under the "control" heading does not appear to reference the correct figure and the footnote for "(4)" is missing on page 12.

Appropriate correction is required.

2. Claims 4-6 are objected to under 37 CFR 1.75(c) as being in improper form because a multiple dependent claim cannot depend from another multiple dependent claim. See MPEP § 608.01(n). Accordingly, the claims 4-6 not been further treated on the merits.

3. Claims 1-3 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention. In claim 1 the locking fins are claimed as "suitable for coupling with structural elements present on said viewer (1) so that it is irreversibly locked onto the latter in a desired relative position" yet the claim does not define the viewer with any structure for the locking fins. Thus the fins are defined by structure which is not positively recited as an element of the claim and are indefinite. In claim 2 it is not clear if the structure is in addition to the fins recited in claim 1 or if the language is redefining the language of claim 1.

4. No art is being applied against the claims because the cited art fails to teach or fairly suggest the flat plates in combination with the viewer in which the flat plates have a recess with a convex bottom that is entirely surrounded by a ridge. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. The art relates to microscopes used to test for female fertility.
